Keynote Speaker, Dr. Peter Buerhaus, PhD, RN, FAAN

Dr. Peter Buerhaus, a nurse and healthcare economist, is well-known for his studies and publications focused on the nursing workforce in the U.S. He is the Valere Potter distinguished professor of nursing and director of the Center for Interdisciplinary Health Workforce Studies, the Institute for Medicine and Public Health, Vanderbilt University Medical Center. Before coming to Vanderbilt University, Dr. Buerhaus was assistant professor of health policy and management at Harvard School of Public Health (1992-2000) where he developed the Harvard Nursing Research Institute and its post-doctoral program in nursing health services research. During the 1980s he served as assistant to the chief executive officer of The University of Michigan Medical Center's seven teaching hospitals (1983-1986) and assistant to the vice provost for medical affairs, the chief executive of the medical center (1987-1990). Dr. Buerhaus was inducted into the American Academy of Nursing in 1994, and elected into the National Academy of Sciences Institute of Medicine in 2003. He has published nearly 90 peer-reviewed articles and is the lead author of the award winning 2008 book, The Future of the Nursing Workforce: Data, Trends, and Implications. On September 30, 2010, Dr. Buerhaus was appointed chair of the National Health Care Workforce Commission. Created under the Affordable Care Act, the Commission advises Congress and the Administration on health workforce policy and serves as a resource for the states and localities.

Spanning the Continuum of How Nurses Matter. This session discusses two studies illustrating the critical difference that nurses make in improved healthcare. Learn about a major study providing new evidence on the association of hospital nurse staffing and inpatient mortality. You will also find out preliminary results of a national survey of primary care nurse practitioners and primary care physicians.

State of the Nursing Workforce. This session will discuss four related areas: describe latest projections on the size and age composition of the nursing workforce (some improving news); describe the state of the nurse labor market and the recession; describe some key trends in the physician workforce that we need to keep our eyes on and prepare for; and describe the status of the National Health Care Workforce Commission.
